Heat Discount at combit High Temperatures, Low Prices

Starting today the weather dictates the prices for the German software house combit. The higher the temperature rises, the more discount customers get on software products from the fields of CRM, contact management and reporting. According to combit, from Monday through Friday at 9:00 am (CET) the current temperature in degrees Celsius is established from www.wetteronline.de/Baden-Wuerttemb/Konstanz.htm. Depending on how warm it is in Constance, in hot southern Germany, there is a different discount every day. The current Heat Discount and more information about this special sales promotion are available on: <http://www.combit.net/en/heatdiscount>.
