List & Label 16: Optimized for Windows Azure

Reporting in the Cloud

Development Component List & Label 16 Optimized for Windows Azure

Constance/Germany, 02/12/2010 – German software house combit announces, that development component List & Label can now also be used for reporting functions in the cloud computing platform Windows Azure. Prerequisite for this is the Enterprise Edition or the Professional Edition with additional server/web server licenses. combit provides a free white paper with a substantial example.

„Cloud computing is currently one of the strongest trends in the IT world,“ explains Jochen Bartlau, project manager for List & Label. „Therefore providing ideal support for the Windows Azure platform means an important strategic step to us.“ The free white paper with an extensive example is supposed to help developers to integrate the reporting component step by step into applications in the Windows Azure cloud. Special utility classes simplify the use of List & Label in Windows Azure. “For years already List & Label has proven to work great with web applications,” states Jochen Bartlau and continues, “now developers working on applications in Windows Azure can benefit from our knowhow.”
